

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use it like a cold cream and dry Eczema eruptions right up.

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions, by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good druggist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold cream. It is not unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with tortuous itching.

GERMAN REVERSES IN GULF OF RIGA CHECK ADVANCES

continued Russian retreat. The retreat continues except in the northern section from Riga to Kovno.

The British critics regard the Baltic advance of the Germans as of supreme importance if the invaders really intend marching on Petrograd. The Russian naval victory, therefore, may have a large effect on the German plans.

There are no definite results yet from the Italian war declaration against Turkey so far as is known. It is expected though to have an effect on Rumania, which is closely connected with Italy.

On the west front artillery duels only are reported.

Russian Gunboat Lost.

Petrograd, Aug. 23.—The Petrograd newspapers assert that the Russian gunboat Slivich with a crew of 148 men was the only Russian warship lost in the gulf of Riga battle. Commander Tepokassov, who distinguished himself at Port Arthur, commanded the Slivich. The number of survivors is unknown.

London, Aug. 23.—An official Russian communication forwarded by the Central News correspondent at Petrograd Gulf naval battle at one dreadnaught, two cruisers and eight torpedo boats. The dreadnaught was sunk by a British submarine. It admits the loss of the Russian gunboat Slivich.

Rome, Aug. 23.—Several troop-laden transports escorted by warships sailed from Naples, Syracuse, Taranto and Brindisi for an unknown destination. Orders were sealed. It is generally believed they will be used in the operations against Turkey.

Vienna, Aug. 23.—The admiralty announced today that reconnaissance on Saturday established the fact that the Italians had evacuated the island of Pelagos in the Adriatic. They destroyed all buildings and fortifications.

Schooner Sunk.

London, Aug. 23.—The British schooner Martha Edmonds has been sunk.

German Destroyer Sunk.

Paris, Aug. 23.—Two French torpedo boats encountered and sank a German torpedo boat destroyer off Ostend, Belgium last night, says an announcement. "Our boats were unharmed."

A Real Heabrow.

The head of a big New York business concern is exceptionally tall and his height is further accentuated by his exceedingly thinness, says The Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. The other day a visitor from the South called to see him and was duly asked to sit down.

After they had concluded their business the visitor rose to go and his host rose also, and seemed to rise and rise. The Southerner, letting his glance travel upward, as though inspecting a new species of skyscraper, and with an expression of awed admiration, ejaculated:

"Great Scott, old man, your parents must have trained you on a trolley!"

DR. POTEAT ON LYNCHING

Greenville News.

An excellent discussion of lynch law, viewed and judged not by the fact of a mere lynching, but from the deeper standpoint of cause and cure, will be found in an appended communication from Dr. E. M. Poteat, president of Furman University. Dr. Poteat treats of the basic cause of lynchings—unrestrained feelings, emotions of ancient man, uncurbed by education or religion, having no thought for the social order, no consciousness of the real quality of an act. Frequently the quality of an act may be determined by imagining the act as having become universal. Suppose every man did as you do, what would be the effect upon society?

From such viewpoints, Dr. Poteat discusses lynch law. It gives the News pleasure to reproduce this article, which is here subjoined:

Mr. Editor:—The tone of Southern editorials on the Georgia lynching is all that the highest righteousness could demand. But I wonder if denunciation of mob violence does not miss the mob. A man said to me yesterday that the governor might identify the murderers and bring them to trial, but not a jury in Georgia would vote to hang them; and he added, not a jury in South Carolina would do it.

This is so then obviously we have a work to do that lies back of public denunciation of lynch law. Our people must be reasoned with; they must be convinced that lynch law under all circumstances is wrong, is anti-social, and, therefore, bad from every point of view. That is to say, their conscience must be enlisted on the side of judicial procedure and against violence of every sort before denunciation of their sudden outbursts of passion will do any good.

How can this be done? The answer is educate, educate, educate! An ignorant people has no sense of the long struggle of the race up from savagery to civilization, and, therefore, they are not controlled by respect for the law, which is the final product of civilization. On the contrary they are controlled by primitive impulse, passion, prejudice. And in yielding to these they are not conscience-stricken as having sinned against society; they are proud as having shown their quality, their independence, their courage.

The precious gains of the slow tolling centuries are not precious to such people. How can they be? The most enlightened among us have, at best, only a partial appreciation of an achievement like trial by jury, for example. And until the average man has been brought to feel history, to see the far past, and to aspire to help reach the still far off goal—we shall be helpless in our protests against lapses into savagery.

Now nowhere is the growth of civilization more clearly seen than in the handling of offenses—personal insult, crime against person and property. The savage—whether in ancient times or in South Carolina today—knows no other way but private vengeance, and he goes forth to punish the offender in the manner his hot blood suggests. He does not see what would result if every body did as he does; he is isolated by his rage and knows only himself and his enemy.

It is a great stride from the lowest stage, when men see that even personal honor and comfort are safer when taken out of private hands, and entrusted to society as a whole, and that anything like progress is impossible until public control in the form of law is substituted for personal violence. And only here does the great concept of Justice come into view—dispassionate, impartial, and, therefore, majestic and commanding. The whole people must grow up to glory in Justice, and come to see that in Justice alone, can personal and social security be found; and further see that Justice can exist but in the cool air of austere fact, reached by patient and unprejudiced search. But this is a process of education which must include all the people, from the little children to the grand-parents; and any one can see how long the process is.

But we must not allow ourselves to forget that education alone—even in the full sense implied above—will never wholly meet the case. Germany thinks herself the most enlightened nation, yet her hero historian, Treitschke, spoke of the "epidemic of crime as a very serious danger to the nation," and he especially alluded to the "terrible increase in crimes of shame (rapes, etc.)." The indications are that the Georgia mob was made up of men of unusual intelligence; indeed, that they were men of consequence. A highly intelligent man under sufficient provocation may become as ferocious as a wild beast; and when all is said and done, Religion alone can conquer and control the tiger in him.

His Honey.

A San Francisco man tells of a flower growing abundantly near Santa Barbara which is peculiarly attractive to bees.

"Now," says he, "there was a young Californian, particularly fond of honey, who used to visit a Santa Barbara honey dealer because such a superior sort of nectar was to be had there."

"This young man married in due course," and the wedding trip included Santa Barbara, so that the bride might taste this superb honey. But to his dismay no honey appeared on the breakfast table the next morning of their stay. The bridegroom frowned. He called the old familiar waiter over to him.

"Where's my honey?" he demanded. "The waiter hesitated, looked awkwardly at the bride, and then bent toward the young man's ear and in a hoarse whisper whispered, 'Way, sir.'—Harper's Magazine.

DEATHS

MRS. H. G. LOVE

Death Occurred Sunday Night After a Long Illness.

The people of the city generally learned with deep regret the death of Mrs. Sue Pluckney Love, wife of Mr. H. G. Love, which occurred at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Sherard, 729 West Whitner street, Sunday night at 10 o'clock, after an illness of three months. Funeral services will be held at the home this morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Dr. J. M. Garrison, pastor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, and interment will be made in Silver Brook cemetery.

Mrs. Love was 31 years of age and was the daughter of the late H. G. Pluckney, who died in 1901. Three years ago she was married to Mr. H. G. Love of this city and is survived by her husband, one sister, Mrs. J. L. Sherard, two brothers, H. G. Pluckney of Atlanta, Ga., and J. M. Pluckney of Cleveland, Ohio, and her stepmother, Mrs. Jennie Pluckney.

Mrs. Pluckney was a descendant of two well known South Carolina families, the Marshalls of Abbeville and the Pluckneys of Charleston. Her death is one of unusual sadness since she was an especially popular young matron just at the height of her womanhood. For several months she had been a patient sufferer, never complaining and her loved ones watched around her bedside knowing that the end would come soon. She has a host of friends and relatives who will mourn her death.

Quit Meat If Your Kidneys Act Badly

Take Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

TAKE SALTS FOR THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS

We Should Drink Lots of Water and Eat Less Meat, Says Noted Authority on Kidney Disorders

Recommends a Spoonful of Jad Salts In Glass of Water Before Breakfast to Stimulate Kidneys and Eliminate the Uric Acid

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy, the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.
